MR. R. Y. LECKIE.

Mr. R. Y. Leckie, Keno, Miss., writes: "I write to tell you of the great benefits that Peruna has accomplished for me. It has cured me of catarrh and seemingly all the other ills that I was subject to."

"I can eat anything before me and digest anything I eat. Physically I am a new man."

With weak or deranged digestion, the source of strength and vitality is impaired, the nerves are weak, the blood circulates feebly.

No man is capable of thinking accurately or doing anything vigorously while suffering with indigestion.

To rid the stomach of catarrh will produce clean, healthy mucous membranes and thus correct the digestion.

EYE WINKS.

They Occur on an Average Twenty Times a Minute.

The average person winks his eyes every three seconds—that is to say, twenty times a minute, or 1,200 times in an hour. This means that an ordinary day's work for a pair of eyelids is from 13,000 to 20,000 winks.

A wink is accomplished in about one-fiftieth of a second, so quickly that, as anybody may observe for himself, it does not in the slightest degree interrupt continuous vision. But the notion that winking is intended by nature to give repose to the eyes is a mistake, the object of it being merely to keep the surface of the sensitive little organs constantly moist. The moisture, which is necessary for the health of the eyes, is supplied, of course, by the tears.

For this purpose—that is to say, to keep the eyes continually bathed—considerable quantities of salty water are secreted. The water is flowing all the time and would pour out over the edges of the eyelids were it not for an oil which is furnished to prevent this. This oil is secreted and supplied by little glands along the rims of the lids. There is also a tear duct, which carries off the superfluous water and gets rid of it.

The mouth of the tear duct is plainly visible on the edge of the lower eyelid near the inner corner of the eye. It is a small pipe, which leads down into the throat, so that when one puts into the eyes anything with a pronounced taste, like cocaine, the flavor of it is presently distinguishable in the mouth.

The eyelids, if closed, are absolutely water tight. They do not exclude light, however, nearly so well as most people suppose.—Saturday Evening Post.

Safe and Swift.

The pupils in No. 3 school in Bushby knew that whenever Mr. Lamson paid them a visit there was one question he was sure to ask, and their answer was always ready. The other selection might propound geographical or arithmetical puzzles, but not Mr. Lamson, chief of Bushby's fire brigade.

It was the closing day of school, and the children, having listened to three addresses with drowsy patience, were glad when Mr. Lamson rose to conclude the exercises.

"Now, children," he said cheerfully, "you have listened most attentively to the words of Mr. Howe, Mr. Gray and Mr. Ranlett. I wonder what you would do if I made you a little speech?"

The shift from the usual question was so unexpected that the children answered before they had time to catch themselves.

"Form in line and march quietly out of the building!" they cried in prompt and joyful chorus.
